
Journal of the Musical Arts in Africa

Submission guidelines

Full-length articles

The following factors are considered when evaluating a manuscript's suitability for publication in JMAA:

- The manuscript offers new, original insights or interpretations and is not merely a restatement of published ideas and views;
- The manuscript makes a significant contribution to the field and extends the boundaries of musical arts discourse;
- The manuscript is likely to arouse readers' interest and stimulate debate;
- The manuscript reflects sound scholarship and uses a research design with appropriate, correctly interpreted references to other authors and works; or
- Should the manuscript challenge the conventions and/or boundaries of published scholarly presentation, it is sufficiently credible and persuasive to warrant publication.

Reviews and review articles

Succinct, critical, evaluative reviews of professional books, texts and other resources, including computer software and audio and audio-visual recordings. Reviews should provide a descriptive and evaluative summary, briefly discussing the work's significance in the context of current theory and practice. In addition to adopting conventional review formats, reviewers are encouraged to use alternative methods of presentation, such as critically engaging the author in a dialogue.

Brief reports and summaries

Short reports on any aspect of theory and practice in academia (conferences, workshops, etc.). We encourage the submission of manuscripts that either showcase preliminary findings of research in progress or focus on larger studies.

General guidelines

1. Papers are accepted for submission provided that:
 - The work is original;
 - The copyright is transferred to the publisher (NISC Pty Ltd);
 - The work has not previously been published and is not under consideration for publication elsewhere;
 - The author has secured the permission of all named co-authors, who have agreed on the order of the names for publication;
 - The author has secured all permissions for reproducing original or derived material from copyright sources;
 - If the work includes statistical calculations, a declaration from an institution (e.g. a university department which offers statistical services) that the calculations and interpretation of the statistics are correct, has been included;

- The work is accompanied by an abstract of not more than 200 words typed on a separate sheet;
 - Full-length articles are between 3000–10 000 words;
 - Reviews are between 1000–1500 words;
 - Brief reports are between 3000–4000 words;
 - The author–date system of referencing is used — see JMAA house style at <http://www.jmaa.uct.ac.za> or <http://www.nisc.co.za>;
 - UK spelling conventions are adopted;
 - Comments and cross-references appear as footnotes and not endnotes;
 - Abbreviations and acronyms are avoided;
 - Music examples are submitted in .jpg, .gif, .tif or .eps format and are legible and clear;
 - Scanned images are at least 300 dpi and saved as eps or tif files;
 - Three hard copies and one electronic copy have been submitted;
 - Electronic copies are in Windows-compatible Microsoft Word document format;
 - Hard copies are typed in 1.5 spacing on A4, single sided;
 - Biographical note of 75 words with the name(s) of author(s), postal address, major publications, etc. is included on a SEPARATE sheet to enable anonymous reviewing.
2. The cost of colour printing must be borne by the author and needs to be discussed with the editors.
 3. Authors need to liaise with the editors about the cost for inclusion of digital material such as VCD, CD, etc.
 4. The editors of JMAA reserve the right to make editorial changes in any manuscript accepted for publication to enhance clarity or style. The author will be consulted only if the editing has been substantial.
 5. The views expressed by contributors to JMAA do not necessarily reflect those of the editors or the editorial board of JMAA.
 6. Contributors are reminded that the language and content of papers should be non-discriminatory, i.e. it should be non-sexist and non-racist:
 - (a) The notion that ‘man’ is a generic term which includes women is now unacceptable; thus when reference is to both sexes, ‘man’ and ‘men’ should be avoided. Some alternatives are ‘person’, ‘people’, ‘human beings’ or ‘men and women’. The use of ‘he’ and ‘him’ can be avoided in most cases by using the plural forms ‘they’ or ‘their’. Examples of sexist and non-sexist formulations are:

The child ... he	Children ... they
Man’s achievements	Human achievements, people’s achievements
Headmasters	Headteachers, Heads, Principals
Wives/husbands	Spouses/families

- (b) In empirical research, avoid generalisations from a single sex group or an unrepresentative group to a broader category such as 'youth', 'children' or 'teachers'.

Manuscripts that do not conform to the requirements listed above will not be considered for publication.
